Guess who's turning seven?

Seven years ago a tiny pink piglet squealed into the life of Willowmavin resident and animal lover, Pam Ahern, and in doing so both their lives were irrevocably changed forever. For Pam, it would see her quitting her full time job, walking away from an incredibly successful equestrian career and dedicating her life to the protection of animals; and for Edgar, well it meant he would never end up on a dinner plate.

"For as long as I can remember I have loved animals, caring deeply about them and wanting to make the world a kinder place" said Pam recently from the eponymously named Edgar's Mission. "But it wasn't until Edgar came into my life that I realised the urgency about the plight of farm animals. Today, I believe Edgar's Mission sits as a beacon of hope, that we can live a non violent life having a truly happy and healthy life without harming others"

Sunday, April 18th marks the big day for Edgar. To celebrate this, and the creativity of kindness, the sanctuary has an annual art day inviting members of the public to submit art works centred on compassion for all beings. It is also a great opportunity to tour the farm, partake in fun activities and sample delicious vegan fare. Line dancers, musicians and face painting will round off this fun-filled day for animal lovers everywhere, 11.00am till 4.00pm, Edgar's Mission Farm Sanctuary, 365 McHargs Road, Willowmavin.
